Course Description

Design of custom strategies to address real-life issues in the development of biocompatible and biomimetic devices for biotechnology or biomedical applications. Teams work with a client in the development of projects that incorporate various aspects of biomedical engineering including instrumentation, biomechanics, biotransport, tissue engineering and others. Emphasizes formal engineering design principles; overview of intellectual properties, engineering ethics, risk analysis, safety in design and FDA regulations are reviewed. Part 1 focuses on design.

Course Pre-Requisites / Co-Requisites

BME 4503 and BME 4503L and BME 4409 and senior standing.

Course Specific Aims

1. Students will apply the design process methodology to the development of a solution to a biomedical engineering problem.
2. Students will demonstrate the process of ideating, designing, prototyping, and verifying a biomedical engineering related technology, device, or method.
3. Students will become effective communicating technical details and rationale for design decisions.
4. Students will appreciate the professional and ethical obligations of a professional biomedical engineer.

Materials and Supply Fees

A semester fee of $125.25 is allocated for project supply material and equipment costs.

Professional Component (ABET)

This course will prepare students to apply the design process to solve problems at the interface of engineering and medicine. Specific to the UF BME program educational outcomes, students will gain experience applying a knowledge of the design process to solving open problems and proving the feasibility of a prototype solution. An integral part of this experience will be the professional communication with industry, clinical and faculty experts as well as technical writing and presentations.

Relation to Program Outcomes (ABET)

Outcome	Coverage*	Teaching Level
1. An ability to identify, formulate, and solve engineering problems by applying principles of engineering, science, and mathematics.	Low	Emphasized
2. An ability to apply both analysis and synthesis in the engineering design process, resulting in designs that meet desired needs.	High	Emphasized

3. An ability to develop and conduct appropriate experimentation, analyze and interpret data, and use engineering judgment to draw conclusions.	High	Emphasized
4. An ability to communicate effectively with a range of audiences	High	Emphasized
5. An ability to recognize ethical and professional responsibilities in engineering situations and make informed judgments, which must consider the impact of engineering solutions in global, economic, environmental, and societal contexts.	High	Emphasized
6. An ability to recognize the ongoing need for additional knowledge and locate, evaluate, integrate, and apply this knowledge appropriately.	Med	Emphasized
7. An ability to function effectively on teams that establish goals, plan tasks, meet deadlines, and analyze risk and uncertainty	Medium	Emphasized

*Coverage is given as high, medium, or low. Teaching Level corresponds to the sequential fit in the curriculum and is given as introduced, reinforced, or emphasized.

This course is not a critical tracking course. In order to graduate, students must have an overall GPA and an upper-division GPA of 2.0 or better (C or better). Note: a C- average is equivalent to a GPA of 1.67, and therefore, it does not satisfy this graduation requirement. More information on UF grading policy may be found at: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/grades.aspx>

Students Requiring Accommodations

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, <https://www.dso.ufl.edu/drc>) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.
